And if you feel that way, aren't you alone??? According to a recent survey conducted by RetailMeNot, 75% of shoppers prefer online shopping for the holidays this year and 18% of people plan to complete their holiday shopping online-only.? said Sara Skirroll, shopping and trends expert at RetailMeNot.Fortunately, you can probably do all your shopping completely online this year? as long as you know where to act. GOBankingRates spoke to shopping experts to find out their go to online stores to buy everything from gifts to décor, plus all the holiday benefits these retailers offer. Here's where to shop (online) to check off everything on your holiday to buy list. Last updated: Nov. 5, 2020man shopping on amazonAmazonYou can find pretty much everything you need for your holiday on Amazon, from unique gifts to full-size artificial Christmas trees ? and you can get it quickly.? If you find yourself shopping closer to your holiday, remember that Amazon offers free two-day shipping for Prime members,? said Rebecca Gramuglia, retail expert at TopCashback.com.American Eagle Outfitters/AerieConsumer analyst Julie Ramhold with DealNews.com said that AE and Aerie are some of the best sites to shop online for gifts to others? and yourself.? Prices tend to be quite reasonable, so I feel like I can treat myself and a friend without breaking the bank,??? she said. Her go-to items to buy from these sites are underwear, loungewear, sweaters and accessories. And both retailers are extra accommodating for customers, which they offer to store and curb pickup at selected locations.? This isn't strictly a holiday perk, but it???s definitely something that can make holiday shopping easier this year, especially if you're worried about items not being delivered on time,??? she said. ? Check with your local store to see if they offer these pick-up options.? American Eagle and Aerie also offer e-gift cards.? I realize that many stores will offer these, especially this year, but this is such a nice gift option to have, especially if you do not know what to buy any,? Ramhold said. ? You do not have to worry that it gets delayed in the mail and does not arrive on time, and you can choose from different festive designs.? Bloomingdale'sUnfortunately, when shopping online, you often have to pack gifts even as many retailers don't offer gift wrap. This could add extra expenses? not to mention it's inconvenient.? Between wrapping paper and boxes and shipping expenses, the cost of a gift does not end when you buy it,??? Gramuglia said. ? To save money and time this year, send gifts directly to recipients from the retailer. And if you're worried about the gift not being packaged or not appearing personally, don't???t. Many stores allow you to include a personalized message for free and some stores, like Bloomingdale's??? Especially around the holidays, you can find things like four cans of European chocolate for $30, which sounds like a lot until you realize it breaks down to five cents per chocolate. And the boxes are beautiful, so they're easy to just turn a bow on and gift that way,??? she said. And whether you like to shop far in advance or at the last minute, costco has options for you.? You can trade holiday items super early at Costco, which means you'll be way ahead of the game,??? Ramhold said. ? And some of these items, like the European chocolate, will even send to you within a couple of days, so you can almost order them at the last minute. Options: 30 Gift-Giving Ideas for tight budgetsSee to eBay for deals on Trendy ItemseBayBuy certified refurbished items on eBay can help you save big on holiday gifts, said money-saving expert Andrea Woroch.? You can save anywhere from 30 to 60% on average on popular technical items, kitchen utensils and even power tools,? she said. ? The advantage of buying through sites like eBay is that certified certified products come with a two-year warranty, a money-back guarantee and easy return within 30 days for a full refund. This gives customers peace of mind that your purchase is protected while helping them save money on popular gifts.? Young Pretty Woman at Home, Using Laptop. Surfing the Internet, Online Shopping.GiftCards.com?This is the 14th year in a row that gift cards are the most requested holiday gift, according to the National Retail Federation, and GiftCards.com is my one-stop-shop for every gift card on my list,??? Woroch said. ? My favorite gift card this year is the Giving Good multi-store card because part of each card sale benefits a great organization like Feeding America, Make-A-Wish, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, Wounded Warrior Project or Habitat for Humanity. So that means you can give back while giving a great gift to your loved ones,??? And when choosing digital gift cards, you don't have to worry about delivery delays, she added.? Another bonus is that you can get shopping done early? buy gift cards now and plan them to arrive on Christmas Day,??? Woroch said. Kohl'sGramuglia recommends Kohls.com for anyone who wants to get a head start on holiday gift shopping.? Major retailers like Kohl's???s are preparing for the holiday season earlier than ever this year,??? she said. ? This means you can snag large appliances, electronics and popular toys well in advance of Black Friday deals dropping. Take advantage of these pre-holiday sales early this month to avoid shipping delays and sold-out goods.? Milan, Italy - August 10, 2017: Nordstrom website. NordstromWhen you shop online at Nordstrom, don't you have to worry about shipping fees? the dealer offers free standard shipping and year-round returns. Or, if you need your gift AS FAST AS POSSIBLE, you can take advantage of Nordstrom's free curb or in-store pickup. Gramuglia recommends doing your holiday shopping on Nordstrom.com thanks to this quick and convenient option.? Target appTargetRamhold uses the Target app to do much of its holiday shopping.? I love Target for many reasons? Great prices on beauty items, their Good & Gather brand has some great picks and shopping via app is so incredibly easy,??? she said. ? Using their app means I can make contactless payment even in store, but most of the time I just order via app and then pick it up via drive-up or have it delivered. It's the kind of convenience I can't???t beat, and prices are just as good if not better than other retailers. On top of that, I love the Target Circle loyalty program because it gives me offers tailored to what I'm shopping for.? The goal is especially convenient for last minute shoppers.? While Target uses the Shipt service and you'll have to pay, you can have the goods delivered the same day in many cases without having to leave the house,??? Ramhold said. ? If you'd rather not pay for another service, you can use same-day pickup in many cases for absolutely free. Go to the store to pick up, if it's it's in the store, select drive-up. I've only just tried it recently and it's???s such an amazing convenience.??? MONTREAL, CANADA - MARCH 25, 2016 - Walmart's website under magnifying glass. Walmart? Walmart has a huge selection of home goods, decorations, children's toys and electronics, so you can't go wrong shopping online to save,??? Woroch said. ? Choose the curb pickup to avoid going to the store, which is a nice feature offered if your local store has the item in stock? then you can get it quickly. Otherwise, sign up for a free trial of Walmart Plus to get fast two-day shipping. They will host several Black Friday sales through November before Thanksgiving, so you can shop early to know that you're getting a lot.? More from GOBankingRatesThis article originally appeared on GOBankingRates.com: How to trade for everything you need for Christmas OnlineDespite novel coronavirus pandemic, 2020 was a strong year for stocks, and some new growth stocks in particular. The March meltdown may have caused some investors' wounds to flare up. However, it paved the way for major indexes such as the Nasdaq and S&P 500 to hit new all-time highs in the months that followed. So-called stay at home stocks such as Zoom Video (NASDAQ:ZM) and Peloton (NASDAQ:PTON) each rose more than 400%, while technology leaders such as Apple (NASDAQ:APPL) and Nvidia (NASDAQ: NVDA) saw their stock prices more than double the year. So where is the growth in 2021 likely to come from? Will these stocks continue to be all-stars or will other growth stocks steal the limelight? 7 Short-term stocks to buy for a good new year Many investors are betting on the reopening game as more people are vaccinated against Covid-19 and the U.S. economy reopens in earnest. Others are betting on a continued change in capital to cyclical stocks. But no matter what happens, not all growth stocks are created equal way into 2021. With that in mind, here are four growth stocks that could double in the next 12 months: InvestorPlace - Stock Market News, Stock Advice & Trading Tips Coty (NYSE:COTY) Draftkings (NASDAQ:DKNG) Qualcomm (NASDAQ:QCOM) UPS (NYSE:UPS) Growth Stocks That Should Double: Coty (COTY) Source: Konektus Photo/Shutterstock.com At $7 a share, coty stock is barely out of penny stock range. But despite its relatively cheap valuation, shares of the beauty retailer specializing in fragrances, cosmetics, skin care and nail care have increased sharply in recent months. In a five-day trading session at the end of November, Coty's share price rose 48%. Since October 1, the stock has risen 145%. The impressive growth has been spurred by a better-than-expected earnings report that boosted the company's turnaround efforts. An announcement that Coty would complete the sale of its Wella professional hair care business to KKR (NYSE:KKR) also gave the share price a boost. In particular, Coty reported a surprise result for its first fiscal quarter, announced on April 4, 2015. Company adjusted earnings per share of 11 cents, compared with the 5 cents per share loss analysts had forecast. The surprise profit was also a vote of confidence in Coty's new chief executive, Sue Nabi, who is the company's third ceo in a year. Wall Street now hopes that Sue Nabi is taking Coty in the right direction after several failed turnaround attempts for the cosmetics company that has been in business since 1904. COTY shares got a further boost when it was announced that a 60% stake it had in Wella would be sold to KKR for $2.5 billion by the end of November. Coty will retain the remaining 40% stake it holds in Wella and has said it plans to use $2 billion of revenue to pay down debt. All of these steps position Coty for continued success in 2021. Draftkings (DKNG) Source: Lori Butcher / Shutterstock.com With the widespread distribution of a Covid-19 vaccine, sport should really make a comeback in 2021. We talk about all sports - college football, March Madness, the Olympics and so on. Professional basketball, baseball, football and hockey should welcome fans back to stadiums and resume their regular schedules. And everything bodes well for sports betting operator Draftkings. The company, which went public via a special acquisition agreement (SPAC) in June 2020, has seen its share price rise 29% in the past six months to $53.90. But the past year has been extremely difficult for the sport's and Draftkings' core business of betting on sports. Many of Draftking's most lucrative sporting events, such as March Madness, were canceled in the past year. It plunged DKNG's stock's future into question, but it has managed to stay strong this year anyway. 7 Vegan shares to buy now for the future of food In 2021, dkng stock should do much better. Not only will most major sporting events resume as normal in the new year, but there are growing expectations that more US states will legalise sports betting in the coming months. Analysts at Oppenheimer noted recently that many states face revenue shortfalls because of the Covid-19 pandemic, and as budget deficits swell, they may turn to sports betting as a new source of income. Oppenheimer expects New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Ohio to legalize sports betting in the coming year. It would certainly help lift DKNG stock to new heights. Qualcomm (QCOM) Source: jejm / Shutterstock.com Despite its spotty roll out to date, 5G wireless is here and will become the dominant form of connectivity going forward. And several companies are positioned to capitalize on the 5G revolution that is expected to take society into new technological realms. Qualcomm is one of the companies most likely to reap rewards from 5G. The semiconductor and software manufacturer benefits from the use of the microchips in various 5G wireless technologies and platforms. In particular, Qualcomm chips are being inserted into an increasing number of 5G Android mobile phones. is not only at the forefront of 5G revolution, it makes the 5G revolution possible. The massive potential of 5G is reflected in the growth of QCOM shares. Qualcomm's share price has more than doubled since March 2020, up 144% to $147.42 per share. And analysts see big things ahead for the stock. Morgan Stanley named Qualcomm one of 10 stocks best positioned to take advantage of the global 5G rollout. Other analysts covering the company have a median price target of $165 per share on Qualcomm's shares, with a high estimate of $200. Given the continued rollout and introduction of 5G networks and technologies around the world, the coming year looks very bright for Qualcomm and its shareholders. UPS (UPS) Source: Sundry Photography / Shutterstock.com Not only does UPS still benefit people who order online while protecting at home, but the delivery and logistics company is also ready to reap benefits from the massive rollout of Covid-19 vaccines across the United States and around the world. This is the time for companies like UPS to shine, and the Atlanta, Georgia-based company is doing just that. UPS is increasing operations and working twice to meet unprecedented demand and help us all get through the global pandemic. That work has helped UPS stock reach new highs, up 113% since March at $175.18 a share. Heading into 2021, UPS has momentum on its side. The company had strong gains in third-quarter earnings. In particular, the company's revenue grew by 16% year-over-year to $21.2 billion and revenue per share was up 10% at $2.28 per share. This beat analysts' expectations for EPS of $1.90 per share. While UPS declined to provide guidance on earnings, the company has aggressively expanded its North American business throughout 2020. 9 Strong shares to sell before the end of the year in Canada, for example, UPS has opened a new $800 million package sorting and delivery hub. The company has also employed more than 5,000 employees in the pandemic. As such, the company shows no signs of slowing down heading into the new year. (Bloomberg) - Billionaire Elon Musk said it's impossible to take Tesla Inc. private now, although he would have liked to spend more time on innovation. Tesla's public company duties are a much bigger factor, but going private is impossible now (sigh). Musk said in response to a tweet saying he should optimize his time in areas like innovation. Engineering, design and general company operations absorb large parts of my mind and are the fundamental limitation on doing more. Tesla shares, which were included in the S&P 500 index this week, have risen eightfold this year ahead of the benchmark. The win is twice as high as the second best athlete on the meter. The share price jump also created millionaires among his investors, driving Musk's net worth by $132.2 billion to $159.7 billion, making him the world's second richest person, according to the Bloomberg Billionaires Index.Bloomberg Wealth: The Tesla Investors Who Are Now MillionairesMusk also said Starlink, SpaceX's burgeoning space internet business, would likely be a candidate in his group to go public when revenue growth becomes affordable. echoed similar comments from the company's president to investors earlier this year. Space Exploration Technologies Corp. has already launched more than 240 satellites to develop Starlink, President Gwynne Shotwell said at a private investor event in February. A-listing would give investors a chance to buy into one of the most promising operations in the tightly held company. Right

These are the best dividend stocks in the Russell 1000 highest highest dividend returns for January. This article is going to explain what penny stocks are and discuss four penny stocks under $1 to watch as small-cap stocks continue a warm start this winter. The first is the first, what are penny stocks? In short, these are shares in companies that trade for less than $5. Penny shares are known for their volatility apart from just their cheap price. But whether you're looking at stocks below $1 or those closer to $5, it's important to keep a few things in mind. First, understand what you buy and why you buy it. Just saying you're trading penny stocks is not the goal. You're in the market to make money. So, identifying entry and exit targets is obviously important. Des dec, you should have a basic strategy in mind. Do you look at day trading penny stocks or do you have a long-term idea in mind? It is also important to take into account the fluctuations in price and how fast they occur. Small-Cap Stocks Continue Their Hot Streak Why Would Anyone Want to Buy Penny Shares Right Now? Case in point, small-cap stocks are red hot right now. Check out the benchmark ETF, Russell 2000 (IWM). While the S&P 500, the Dow, and even the Nasdaq are struggling to maintain a bullish trend, IWM only made fresh, all-time highs on Wednesday. Adopting the strength of small-cap stocks - especially stocks below $1 - it's prudent to at least have some trending names on your watch list. When you find penny stocks to buy, make sure you consider each trade independently and plan accordingly. Most people would not plan to invest in penny stocks that rise and fall 50% in seconds. Moreover, today traders would normally not jump into a stock that is barely fluctuating in price. As a rule of thumb, the lower the price, the higher the volatility. It is simply for the fact that a small move in price corresponds to a larger percentage change. With this in mind are some of these penny stocks under $1 on your watch list right now? Tonix Pharmaceuticals Tonix Pharmaceuticals Holding Corp. (NASDAQ: TNXP) is another of penny stocks below $1 gaining steam before the end of the year. This week, the company released news that it was ending its purchase of about 44 acres in Montana. This will be the site of vaccine development and production facilities. This also adds to the growing footprint of the company. A few months ago, Tonix also bought a 40,000 sq/ft plant in Massachusetts. These two facilities will support the development and production of the company's vaccine candidates. If you are new to TNXP stock history, the company is currently developing the TNX-1800 as a potential COVID-19 vaccine as well as TNX-801 for a smallpox/monkeypox vaccine. In particular, the TNX-1800 has been a center of attention as you can imagine. Many coronavirus vaccine populations have gained interest in recent months. In this case, Tonix aims to report efficacy data from animal challenge studies of the vaccine candidate next quarter. Biolase (biolase) Inc (NASDAQ: BIOL) is another of the lower-priced penny stocks making moves at the end of the year. This week alone penny stock has climbed from around $0.27 to over $0.31. While this is only a $0.04 move, that equates to a nearly 15% jump in price since Monday. Unlike other biotechnology biolase is mainly focused on products used in oral health. The company's main products are dental laser systems that perform a wide range of procedures, including cosmetic and complex surgical applications. Last month, the company launched Waterlase Endo Academy to promote education and best practices for integrating Waterlase technology into clinical environments. As endodontists continue to seek out more advanced solutions for challenging cases, the academy will serve as a resource for some of the greatest minds in the field to elevate the spread of best practices for the integration of advanced technology like Waterlase, said Todd Norbe, President and CEO of Biolase.Jaguar Health Inc. (NASDAQ: JAGX) has continued climbing this week. Wednesday saw the penny stock further extend its December gains and reach highs of over $0.90. While we've been reporting on the company for weeks, the bigger move comes this week after Jaguar's latest update. The company signed an agreement on a non-diluted royalty financing transaction. Jaguar will sell a royalty interest in future royalties of its Mytesi® (crofelemer) and leclchems for a total purchase price of $6 million. Lisa Conte, Jaguar's president and chief executive, explained that The timing of this transaction is consistent with the progress of the newly initiated Pivotal Phase 3 study for CTD, for which patient enrollment is progressing. Also remember that the company held preliminary discussions with the Swiss Growth Forum, a sponsor of a European acquisition company for special purposes, Post Pandemic Recovery Equity. It is a potential agreement with SPAC and an operational subsidiary of Jaguar to be established in Europe with an exclusive license to crofelems and Mytesi for indications of inflammatory diarrhea and HIV-related diarrhea. Senseonics Holdings Inc. (NYSE: SENS) has begun firing this week after a major U.S. patent victory. Senseonics received a patent titled Remote-Powered Sensor System with Multiple Sensor Devices. Considering that the company is a medical device company, patent gains are very useful. Senseonics' implantable glucose monitoring systems are used by diabetic patients. The company's CGM systems, Eversense® Eversense® XL, include a small sensor inserted under the skin. This communicates with a smart transmitter worn over the sensor. Data is then sent every five minutes to a mobile app on the user's smartphone. Adding to reasons to see Senseonics, earlier this year the company partnered with Ascensia Diabetes Care, a global diabetes care company. Heading into early 2021, there are a few things traders follow. One of these commercial activities outside the United States using Ascensia. The company also expects a decision on approval of its Eversense product by the FDA in the first half of the year. Take a deep breath, get ready, the new year is just around the corner, and while we're all ready to celebrate - just on principle, because getting out of 2020 is reason enough for joy - let's also take care of where we are and where we're headed. There is a growing sense of optimism, created by the availability of COVID vaccines and the potential they provide for a return to normal on Main Streets around the country. Finally, a chance that lockdown and social distancing regimes really are going to end, and in the short term. There is a real chance that, by the end of a 2021, John Q. Public may get back on its feet. Combine that with Wall Street's current ebullience, as stock markets trade at or near their all-time high levels, and we're looking at the prospect of a banner year. A return to grassroots normality will be great - but we also have the prospect of an overall rising market. Writing from JPMorgan, chief U.S. equity strategist Dubravko Lakos-Bujas writes, Equities are facing one of the best backgrounds this year. Risks associated with global trade tensions, political uncertainty and pandemic will disappear. At the same time, liquidity conditions are still extremely supportive, and it is an extremely favorable interest rate environment. It's a Goldilocks environment for risky assets. Lakos-Bujas does not shy away from quantifying his optimism. He predicts as much as 19% gains for S&P 500, says that the index will hit 4000 in early 2021 and reach as high as 4400 in the later part of the year. JPM's cadre of equity analysts turns Lakos-Bujas' prospects into concrete recommendations, knocking the table on three stocks that look particularly compelling. We ran the trio through TipRank's database to see what other Wall Street analysts have to say about. Sotera Health (SHC)Sotera Health occupies a unique niche in healthcare and, through its subsidiaries, offers a number of safety-oriented healthcare support companies. These services include sterilization procedures, laboratory testing and counseling services - and their importance is immediately clear. Sotera has over 5,800 healthcare professionals customers in more than 50 countries around the world. Although it is not a new company - two of its branches have been in business since the 1930s and 40s - Sotera is new to the stock markets, having held the IPO in November last year. The first offer was considered raise $1.2 billion on a sale of 53.6 million shares. Earlier this month, Sotera announced that it was using much of its IPO capital to pay off $1.1 billion in existing debt. This included $341 million in a first lien term loan, plus $770 million overall principal on an edition of senior secured notes. The move allowed Sotera to increase its revolving credit facility to $347.5 million. That plant is currently being pulled out. Among the bulls is JPM analyst Tycho Peterson who rates shc an overweight (it will want Buy) along with a one-year price target of $35. This figure suggests a 31% upside from current levels. (To see Peterson's track record, click here) SHC is uniquely positioned to take advantage of healthy end-market growth and favorable pricing dynamics, Peterson noted. Given a diversified operating platform, sticky multi-year contracts, an effective pricing strategy, significant barriers to entry and high regulatory oversight, we project -9% sales growth, with higher utilization driving continued expansion [and] robust FCF supporting ongoing de-exploit, so we are positive on both near- and long-term prospects. Wall Street analysts are firmly behind Peterson on this one - in fact, the last seven reviews are unanimous Buy, making analyst consensus a strong buy. SHC is currently trading at $26.75, and its $32.50 average price target implies an upside of 21.5% by the end of 2021. (See SHC stock analysis on TipRanks) Myovant Sciences (MYOV)Let's stick to health care, and look at Myovant Sciences. This clinical research biopharma company focuses on major problems with reproductive system disease in both men and women. In particular, Myovant works to develop treatments for uterine fibroids, endometriosis, and prostate cancer. Myovant's pipeline currently has Relugolix as a treatment for fibroids and endometriosis. The drug is in the phase 3 study for the latter, and has had its NDA sent for the former. Also in the pipeline, and related to reproductive health, is MVT-602, a new drug designed to improve egg maturation and aid in vitro fertilization. In addition, Myovant announced this month that Relugolix has been FDA approved - under the brand name Orgovyx - as a treatment for advanced prostate cancer. The drug is the first, and currently only, Oral Gonadotropin-Releasing Hormone (GnRH) Receptor Antagonist for the disease. Orgovyx is expected to enter the market in January 2021.Analyst Eric Joseph, in his note on this stock for JPM, describes how he is impressed with Relugolix based on the clinical and commercial potential of lead asset relugolix for the treatment of endometriosis and uterine fibroids, as well as in men for the treatment of advanced prostate cancer. The analyst added: In women's health, we believe the totality of phase 3 data to date de-risks the likelihood of relugolix approval in the United States for uterine fibroids and endometriosis - commercial opportunities that are at today's level. Level, we see an attractive commercial setup for relugolix in the treatment of advanced prostate cancer as an oral LHRH option with a differentiated CV risk profile. These comments support Joseph's Overweight (it will) rating on MYOV, and his $30 price target implies a 31% upside for the next 12 months. (To see Joseph's track record, click here) Overall, strong buy analyst consensus rating on Myovant comes from 5 reviews, and the breakdown is clear to the bulls: 4 to 1 in favor Buy versus Hold. The stock's $22.80 share price and $36.40 average price target provide a robust upside potential of -59%. (See MYOV Inventory Analysis on TipRanks) Metropolitan Bank Holding (MCB)For the third stock, we will change lanes from healthcare to finance, where Metropolitan Bank Holding operates - through its subsidiary Metropolitan Commercial Bank - as a full-service bank for business, entrepreneurial and personal customers in the mid-market segment. The bank's services include business lending, cash management, deposits, electronic banking, personal control and prepaid cards. In a year that has been difficult for most of us, THE MCB has managed to post ever-increasing revenues and solid earnings. The bank's top line has increased from $33 million in Q1 to $36 million in Q3. EPS was stronger, at $1.27 per share, up 30% year-over-year. The gain comes as the bank provides guidance of $153.9 million in total revenue for next year, which - if met - will reflect a 22% gain over 2020.While MCB's financial results have shown steady gains, the stock valuation has not followed suit. The stock has only partially repaid losses taken last winter at the height of the corona crisis, and is currently down 26% this year. Analyst Steven Alexopoulos looks at the New York banking environment from JPM, noting general difficulties in the commercial real estate lending sector - an important part of MCB's portfolio - because of the ongoing pandemic problems. In this environment, he sees the Metropolitan Bank as the right choice. We're not as bearish as most at the prospect of New York real estate. Having witnessed many cycles in NYC, the time to buy has been when the herd is running in the other direction. In previous cycles, MCB has been an outperformer on credit calculations relative to its loan portfolio compared to our coverage group, Alexopoulos goes on to explain another key strength in MCB's loan portfolio: In a low interest rate environment, the MCB stands better positioned than peers to withstand NIM headwinds with 59% of MCB's fixed-rate loans and 67% of remaining floating fixed-rate loans to protect against lower short-term interest rates... To this end, Alexopoulos MCB rates an overweight (that is, Buy) along with a $50 price target. Should the target be met, investors could pocket gains of 43% over the next year. (To see Alexopoulos' track record, click here) Some stocks fly under the radar, and the MCB is one of them. Alexopoulos' is the only recent off of off company, and it is decidedly positive. Moderna shots alone could be worth as much as $1 billion to McKesson's 2021 earnings and $1 a share to its earnings, said analyst Ricky Goldwasser. The decades-old battery maker went public by merging into a SPAC in November. Since then, the stock has taken a remarkable boost. Why is quite a mystery. Investor's Business Daily's Boeing makes a good purchase now that the $77 Max grounding is lifted? Look at the aviation giant's basic and stock chart. Things go from bad to worse for Nikola (NKLA). For a stock that was on fire during the first half of the year, the electric car manufacturer's comedown has been brutal. A series of incidents - allegations of fraud committed by founder Trevor Milton, his subsequent resignation, a serious underwhelming deal with General Motors - have sent investors to the exit gates. Now it seems that even the garbage wants nothing to do with Nikola.On Wednesday, the company announced that its plan to design and build BEV garbage waste trucks for the waste collection company Republic Services has collapsed. The company has cited that the cost of building the trucks would be higher than expected and would take too long, after both sides concluded that building the renovation car using Nikola Tre as a base would not work. The market, apparently, clearly did not like the recent setback and the shares fell almost 20% over the last two trading sessions. Deutsche Bank analyst Emmanuel Rosner puts the disappointment down to the fact RSG was Nikola Three's only external customer announced so far and was perceived as providing some external validation of its finances. But by putting a positive spin on the negotiations, the analyst believes that the final resolution of the agreement may work in Nikola's favor. The waste disposal vehicle would have required large expenses that could not necessarily be transferred to other core businesses, and TAM is also relatively small, the analyst said. That said, Nikola has other problems to contend with: analyst feels uneasy about the development of Nikola's BEV truck, which is expected too late in 2021. Although the first trucks have been manufactured and are currently in the testing phase, no customers have been announced yet, and Nikola's finances with it can be unfavorable for years. Overall, Rosner summed up: We remain on the sidelines of the NKLA and will carefully study some of the milestones expected to be announced in 1H21, including a potential hydrogen infrastructure partner. The analyst therefore shares a hold, even well have said Buy - because his $26 price target implies - 88% upside from current levels. (To see Rosner's track record, click here) Rosner's colleagues think Nikola is worth a punt. The average price target is a touch higher than Rosner's and at $26.67 implies gains of 92.5%. All in all, the stock has a Moderate Buy consensus rating based on 3 Purchases, 4 Holders and 1 Sell. And some cruise lines are in the process of resuming trips. So is this a good time or bad time to invest in Carnival? Two ARK funds received huge inflows Wednesday, surpassed only by the much larger SPDR S&P 500 ETF. Two days before Christmas 2020 - when many investors and traders were looking to just relax and prepare for the holidays - fleet electrification company XL Fleet (NYSE:XL) took Wall Street by storm, with XL stock rising as much as 80% in a single day on the back of a confluence of good news. Source: nrqemi / Shutterstock.com No one saw this big rally in XL stock coming. Well, almost none. In InvestorPlace's financial newsletter The Daily 10X Stock Report - which is aimed at delivering to your inbox, every single day, a stock choice that could rise by at least 10X - I notified subscribers on December 18 that XL stock was an explosive bet on the electric car revolution with enormous long-term upside potential. InvestorPlace - Stock Market News, Stock Advice & Trading Tips At the time, the XL share price was $15. XL's share price currently stands north of $30 - meaning XL stock has doubled for Daily 10X subs in less than a week. In other words, no one saw this massive rally in XL stock coming apart from The Daily 10X subscribers... and in seeing the big rally coming before anyone else, these submariners have made 100% of their money in four trading days. Believe it or not, being alerted to big winners before hosting breakout rallies has become par for the course at The Daily 10X. These subscribers were also told about Nio (NYSE:NIO), Plug Power (NASDAQ:PLUG), MindMed (OTCMKTS:MMEDF), FuboTV (NASDAQ:FUBO), QuantumScape (NASDAQ:QS), Luminar (NASDAQ:LAZR), JinkoSolar (NYSE:JKS), Blink Charging NASDAQ (BLNK), Digital Turbine (NASDAQ:APPS), and many, many others before these shares staged big breakout rallies, and have scored 100% plus gains in all these names as well (to read more about the newsletter, click here). But returning to XL stock, I think this big December breakout may actually be just the beginning of a much bigger, longer uptrend where stocks soar above $100. deg for Luke's Free Free Investing newsletter Here's how it can happen. The Electric Car Revolution's Gap The world's passenger and commercial fleets are being electrified. That much is certain. Thanks to falling costs, changing laws and improving technology, electric cars, buses, vans and trucks are increasingly becoming the global norm. But ubiquity for electric cars is far away. Most cars on the road today (about 97%) powered by fossil fuels. By extension, almost all of the car production capacity in the world is connected to making gas and diesel cars. Producing enough EVs to displace tens of millions of gas and diesel cars, buses, vans and trucks on the road today will require a re-jigging of the world's automotive network - something that will inevitably take years, even decades, to complete. But we need to reduce carbon emissions now. And then The Gap appears in EV Revolution. Today, there is a huge gap in the car market between robust demand and the need for cleaner energy vehicles, and limited supply to meet this demand. Someone has to fill that gap. That someone is going to be xl fleet - which of course is good news for XL stock. XL's Plug-and-Play solution to decarbonize fleets The aforementioned EV Revolution Gap exists for a big reason - making electric cars is fundamentally different than making diesel and gas cars. So, if an automaker like Ford (NYSE:F) or General Motors (NYSE:GM) wants to create a new fleet of EVs, they can't just adjust their existing factories. They have to make some drastic changes, the sum of which will require a lot of time and money. But what if there was no need for drastic changes? What if Ford and General Motors could only make a small adjustment to their factories, and... voila, produce environmentally friendly vehicles? Surely, it would fix the EV Revolution Gap, right? It would - and it's exactly the dream that xl fleet is trying to make a reality. xl Fleet has created a proprietary line of environmentally friendly powertrains designed for midsize commercial vehicles that are only plug-and-play solutions for automakers to instantly and cost-effectively decarbonize their fleets. The idea is simple. Let's say Ford wants to make an environmentally friendly version of its Transit Van. The company could create a brand new production facility for the new van, which would take several quarters and millions of dollars. Or Ford could keep its old plant, and simply trade in an XL powertrain to improve the fuel efficiency and carbon emission profile of the van. Very little extra cost. Very little adjustment of the assembly line. And almost no extra time. In other words, xl Fleet has created a range of powertrain solutions that can be used instantly - and at no extra cost - by fleet operators to reduce carbon emissions. xl Fleet fills The Gap in the EV revolution, and it has huge long-term implications for xl stock. Hybrid First, Electric Second To Be Sure, XL the powertrains are not fully electric. They're hybrid. That's why they act as a plug-and-play solution in today's automotive plants. But hybrid is better than nothing - and given that EV production capacity is still decades away from being fully capable of delivering the entire automotive market, XL Fleet's hybrid powertrains are a big step in the right direction, and a very attractive, scalable solution for fleet operators today. That's why XL Fleet has amassed an unrivaled blue-chip customer base in recent years, which includes FedEx (NYSE:FDX), Coca-Cola (NYSE:KO), PepsiCo (NYSE:PEP) and Verizon (NYSE:VZ). These large companies see xl powertrains as an optimal way to cheaper and accelerate their path towards reducing emissions. Then The XL Fleet will create a path for them to go all-electric. That's because the XL Fleet is developing an all-electric version of its plug-and-play XL powertrain. The all-electric drivetrain may well become the basic technology on which a large part of tomorrow's electric fleets are built. If that happens - and the odds are in XL Fleet's favor - then XL stock will soar to $80 in the long run (at least). XL Stock to $80? According to Bloomberg NEF - one of the most qualified clean energy research firms in the world that always seems to be discovering about the EV revolution - less than 10% of the medium-sized sales of commercial vehicles in 2030 will be electric. That means 90% will not be electric, equivalent to over 1.5 million medium-sized trucks, the vast majority of which will be on the lookout for alternative decarbonization routes. The fastest option? The most cost-effective option? The most proven option? XL powertrains. Although XL Fleets nabs only 10% of this market, it involves over 150,000 powertrain deliveries in 2030, which my figures say could flow into nearly $4 billion in revenue and $550 million in net profit. A 20X multiple on that implies a potential future valuation of $11 billion. Based on today's fully diluted stock count, it implies a long-term price target for xl stock of about $80. Can xl share price hit $100? Importantly, my $80 long-term price target on XL stock does not include any penetration into the heavy-duty market, as XL Fleet designs a new eco-friendly powertrain platform that is expected to launch soon. It also does not include xl fleet's all-electric powertrain concept, which is also expected to come to market soon. Both of these new products represent significant addressable market expansions - and may end up becoming game changers in themselves. They could easily add another few billion dollars in revenue (at least) and get hundreds of millions of dollars in profits (again, at least). If profits go to $1 billion by 2030, then this is a potential $20-plus billion company in making (using a 20X more). That equates to a future XL share price of $140. Bottom line of XL Stock by filling The Gap in EV Revolution, XL Fleet could one day become a huge company in the epicenter of fleet electrification - and xl stock could be your next big winner.
